East Mountain Residency

Who is East Mountain?

East Mountain is a Christian missional community that partners with churches and organizations to holistically disciple and grow leaders.

Leaders from every part of the world say their greatest need is leadership training. We are dedicated to developing Christian leaders who are equipped to reproduce more leaders and influence positive change, both in their own communities and around the globe. Our residency program is just one way we do this.

What?

The East Mountain Residency is a year-long leadership development program designed for young people between the ages of 20-26. Our program engages the whole person - head, heart, and hands - and includes training in biblical theology, spiritual formation, and practical leadership skills. Our residents live and work together at the East Mountain Community House with others from different countries, cultures, and backgrounds. This shared living experience is a unique space that allows residents to live, learn, and be formed in cross-cultural community.

Our residents live and work together at the East Mountain Community House, situated in the Helderberg mountains outside the small university town of Stellenbosch. With other residents from different countries, cultures, and backgrounds, this shared living experience is a unique space that allows residents to live, learn, and participate in intentional community, a value we hold closely.

Program's Components:

Why?

“One of the most important reasons for me to join the Residency was self-discovery. I wanted to know what the Lord was calling me to do and what were my gifts. At East Mountain I was able to find my weaknesses and strengths. I got a chance to live with people from other cultures and share life with them. The residency has prepared me a lot for my next step in life. I am going to college to study theology...”

– Lutando Macopozo, 2016

“At East Mountain I found the safety and support I needed in order to recuperate from a season of burnout, and move forward with greater understanding of what it means to lead like Jesus. The multicultural nature of learning and growing at East Mountain is my highlight. Growing and worshipping together with brothers and sisters from various walks of life and cultures is a beautiful picture of living in the Kingdom of Heaven.”

– Lindiwe Mpofu, 2018

“When I think about my 2017 year, what comes to mind is stimulation, transformation, and development in all areas of my life. I have also learned the gift of living in community, caring, motivating, challenging, encouraging, and inspiring truth to others, to dream wide and big, and impact the world to engage hearts.”

– Marlyn Simon, 2017
